DR. RICHARD STEERE COLWELL, D.D.

Dedication

To Dr. R. S. Colwell, Professor of Greek and Dean of Denison University, whom we all love and admire, the Junior Class respectfully dedicates this book.

Richard Steere Colwell, D.D.

RICHARD STEERE COLWELL was born near Providence, Rhode Island, just over the state border in the Massachusetts village of Hebronville. He received his preparation for college in the Mowry and Goff Classical School, of Providence, a flourishing institution at that time, but not now in existence. He entered Brown University in 1866 and was graduated with the degree of A.B. in 1870, after winning Phi Beta Kappa and distinguishing himself behind the bat in baseball, a combination of honors in which the ordinary rules of mathematics are set aside and addition becomes multiplication. He then taught two years in Providence, took the three-year course in Newton Theological Institution, spent a year in Europe, and preached a year. Meanwhile, Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews, his classmate at Brown, had become President of Denison, and in the summer of 1877 President Andrews announced the selection of Richard S. Colwell as Professor of Greek, to succeed Professor William Arnold Stevens, called to the Rochester Theological Seminary. Thus Dr. Colwell will complete in June thirty-eight full years of service in Denison, the longest record of any unbroken professorship in the history of the College, though all but equaled by that of the Professorship of Mathematics under Dr. Gilpatrick. In 1891 the degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon Professor Colwell by Brown University.

Conditions and circumstances lead many to go through college without Greek, but no one goes through Denison without knowing and respecting "Dick." His pupils respect him for his positive, manly bearing and his insistence on honest, persistent and scholarly work in the classroom. Those interested in athletics respect him for his athletic enthusiasm, shown by long and laborious service on the Board of Control, by adherence to clean ideals of intercollegiate sport, by presence at the games, and by his own participation in tennis, golf and other healthful athletic pastimes, thus carrying youthful spirit forward into advancing years. And all alike respect him for his practical common sense and strong, vigorous personality; for his fearless adherence to that which seems to him the path of duty; for the tender sympathy that underlies that adherence to duty, even when in his relations with students or others it may assume a stern exterior; for his broad range of interest and the rich storage of his mind, gathered from literature, from travel and from intercourse with men; for his habit of independent thought and outspoken opinion, which commands respect even when it does not secure acceptance; for his scorn for all that is mean, underhanded and dishonest. In short, for all that has made Dick "Dick" to many generations of Denison students, and in spite of all the trouble which as College Dean he makes for us when we are derelict in college duty, he deserves and possesses our hearty respect and affection.

Here's three and a tiger for Dick, Dick, Dick!
Shout 'em out with a vigor, quick, quick, quick!
And long to his post may he stick, stick, stick!

Foreword

WE, the members of the Junior Class, present this book to its readers as the more or less complete record of a year spent at Denison. We hope it will bring back to all of you, as you look it over now and again years from the present time, memories of your days here. We have had important events to chronicle. For the first time in her history, Denison has sent forth two Chio Champion athletic teams, in the period covered by this book. And we have also the inauguration of Dr. Chamberlain as our "Prex" last spring to record. We have tried to give you a book worthy of the events which it records. Besides the more important events, it has been our purpose to give a complete picture of all the phases of our college life outside the curriculum. Mistakes we know have been made, but we have done our best, and hope you will judge our work rather by the spirit than by the result.

The greatest thanks are due Professors Biefeld and W. H. Johnson, whose advice and assistance have been invaluable to the management on the preparation of this book.

"PREX"

To the Students of Denison

It is not the purpose of the College to teach you ways and means and enable you to acquire accomplishments, but to make you acquainted with the strong minds and noble characters of the past and present, and lead you to appreciate the thoughts of God put into the atom, the earth and the universe. May the four years spent upon these hill tops give you all the true vision of life.

History of the Class of 1915

THE Class of 1915 has been an important factor along all lines of activity in Denison during the past four years. Following are a few statements with reference to their influence, and they are brief because our class is not given over to the so-called "hot-air" but rather to brevity and sincerity.

Along athletic lines especially has our class been strong. Everyone realizes that the past four years have been the strongest "athletically" that Denison has ever seen, and everyone realizes that the Class of 1915 has been directly responsible for that through the efficient coaching of W. J. Livingston. Our athletes won their places in their Sophomore year and have held them ever since. But for 1915, the past two basketball championships and the still glorious football championship might never have been.

In the Glee Clubs, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., and literary societies, members of 1915 have always taken a leading part and are in many ways responsible for the great success experienced by these organizations.

When we entered the institution we were a large class, but business, matrimony, and other schools have enticed many of our number away, so that now we are a very small class compared to our Freshman year. In spite of our small numbers, or rather because of this, our social activities have been of unusual merit. Never was there a class that has enjoyed such unity and close relationship between the members.

When old '15 drops to her place among the ranks of the Alumni, memory of her surely will not fade with the customary speed of an ordinary class. Not loud in her praises of herself, but working with might and main for our "fair college on the hill," 1915 hopes that she has not spent in vain the energies of her undergraduate days. Great men are never appreciated until after their death and then the world misses their efforts and successes. Such may be the fate of 1915.

1915 ADYTUM

HELEN GILMORE, A.B.

Newton High 1910. Philo. Δ O.

Glee Club (1, 2, 3, 4). Orchestra
(2, 3, 4). Vice Pres. Philo (4).

What would we have done without Helen? All through college she has been soothing our savage breasts with her music. No one knows how many massacres and bombardments have been warded off thus. Those who like to know "some one in town" have found it great good luck to stand ir with our charming subject.

PHEBE JOHNSON, A.B.

Cherry Hill High 1911. Philo.

Street Council (2, 3). Debate (3).
House Council (4). Vice Pres.
Trans-Mississippi Club (3). Y.
W. C. A. Cabinet (4). Class Poet
(4).

Like a fresh western breeze, Phebe Alice hails from Nebraska, the land of perfect farms. She has worked hard and accomplished much here at school, but her heart is still in the West, where she expects to return for her life's work.

WALTER B. ROACH, A.B.

Doane Academy 1911. Δ Δ T.

Roach is a living example of the saying "A bad penny always comes back." After graduating from Doane he wandered far from the fold, but came back for his last two years. He looks like a preacher, but expects to go west and be a great engineer some day.

RUTH SHAFFER, A.B.

Brookville High 1911. Euterpe.
Street Council (4).

Ruth's good-natured laugh will surely be missed next year. She has kept us all cheerful during her four years here. She tells us she is going to move to California and her friends wish her all sorts of happiness in her new home.

ERI J. SHUMAKER, A.B.

Α Δ Τ. Sycamore. Rh. B. Franklin Doane Academy 1911. Vice Pres. Y. M. C. A. (3). Assistant in Biology (3, 4). Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (1, 2, 3, 4).

Eri is always busy—perhaps a bit too busy for his own good. He would rather be a doorkeeper in chapel than dwell in the tents of Shepardson. However, he has shown much versatility in the gentle art of fussing. For four years he has made a specialty of meeting new students in Newark.

LOUISE SPIVEY, A.B.

Steele High (Dayton) 1912. Euterpe. Debate (3, 4). Debate Council (4). Street Council (4).

"Lou" is one of our few Classical students. She has won a large place in the hearts of those who know her. It is true that she often wears a cloak of dignity, but when there is any fun going on, "Lou" can always suggest "one better."

WILLIAM E. YATES, A.B.

Broaddus Institute 1911. Franklin.

Pastor of Pleasant Valley and Duncan's Falls Baptist Church.

Here is one of our practising ministers. In spite of a large family and its attendant needs, Brother Yates has succeeded in maintaining a high standard in all of "Willie's" courses. He has displayed some oratorical powers but always on the side of conservatism.

EDITH BEARD, Ph.B.

X Ψ Δ. Wilkinsburg High. Euterpe.

Sec. Student Government (3). Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (3).

"Wuzzy" hails from the Keystone State, which is a fairly sensible place to live. She has seldom made a great noise about the campus, but it is rumored that her high spirits are never quite out of reach. We believe that Titian would have been glad to see her in her cap and gown.

1915 ADYTUM

HORACE R. BIGGS, PH.B.

Φ Δ Θ. Doane Academy 1911. Varsity Football (2, 3, 4). Basketball (2, 3, 4). Baseball (2, 3, 4).

Horace is the biggest man in school for his size. He has surely done his share for Denison athletics. Yet those who know him say his abilities are not all along athletic lines. We hope for him a large place in the world.

HAZEL BOLIN, PH.B.

Σ Δ Φ. Minneapolis Central High 1911. Thalia. Athletic Asso. Board (1). Pres. Athletic Asso. (4). All-Shepardson Basketball (2, 3). Gymnasium Assistant (3, 4). Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (4). Class Poet (3). Secretary (4).

We see in Hazel the spirit of activity. The gym. is not big enough for her, and she applies her energy in other lines of work, teaching her pen to dance for the benefit of literature, etc. She is the sort of girl who makes a place lonely when she leaves it.

MARGARET BOYER, PH.B.

Bethel Township High 1910. Philo. Street Council (3). Debate Council (3, 4). Pres. Philo (4). Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (3).

"Midge" is enjoying a halo while on earth. Wherever her golden locks are seen one may be sure that something is going on. She can make you believe that black is white if she tries. It must be fine to look so innocent that even the powers that be can't convict you of having a good time.

STROTHER A. CAMPBELL, PH.B.

"Sam" is one of those big easy-going fellows who never make a fuss and yet always come out on top. But if you are looking for trouble, Sam may help you to find it where you don't expect it. He expects to take on a theological course next.

E. HOWARD DAVIES.

Φ Γ Δ, Θ. D.D.D (1, 2, 3).
Basket Ball Manager (3). Varsity Track (2).

"Duffy" reached the zenith of his glory during Summer School of 1914, when he raised one of those magnificent transparent moustaches so much in vogue last fall. He made a brilliant record as Manager of the State Champion Basketball Team. We wish him as much success in after life.

ROY B. DEER, PH.B.

Α Δ Τ. Doane Academy 1912.
Sycamore. Rh.B. Calliope. Chairman '16 Scrap Committee (1). Debate (2, 3, 4). Debate Council
(3). Pres. Ministerial Asso. (4).

Roy is fond of "explanifying" to the brethren. He can talk the fastest and weave in the most oratorical phrases of any man who ever studied logic. He graduated from the fusser's school while still in Doane.

ALICE EISWALD, PH.B.

Θ Τ. Mansfield High 1912. Euterpe.
Glee Club (1, 2). Debate (3).
Debate Council (3). Geology Assistant (1). English Assistant (3).

Real beauties are scarce, and when we find one we like to keep her as long as possible. Alice has disappointed our hopes by finishing our little curriculum in three years. Hereafter she will live up the great sad world instead of us. She played a winning game of hearts while here.

HELEN ENGLAND, PH.B.

Zanesville High. Euterpe. Vice Pres.
Zanesville Club (4). Glee Club
(4). Assistant in English (4).

This is the original "Modest Violet." However, she has a growing tendency toward writing things, which with her Puritan conscience, means righting things in this wicked world. But we will never be afraid of Helen, even if she starts a new book for Sophomore History.

1915 ADYTUM

FLORENCE FOSTER, Ph.B.

X Ψ Δ. Capen School, Northampton, Mass. Euterpe. Glee Club (1, 4). Vice Pres. Y. W. C. A. (3). Vice Pres. H. & P. S. A. (4). Sec. Class (2).

If you want to know the proper thing to do, go to "Floss." By digging about the roots of many good deeds, you will unearth her, far down, calmly thinking out another fine plan. We don't wear our souls in sight, but everyone knows what "Floss's" is like: a great warm heart, with helping hands growing out as wings.

CLARENCE L. FOX, Ph.B.

Φ B K, Φ Γ Δ. Steele High (Dayton). Manager 1914 Adytum. Sec. Athletic Asso. (3). Pres. (4). Student Council (4). Football Manager (4). Basketball Manager (4). Pan-Hellenic Council (4). Treas. Y. M. C. A. (4).

"Foxy" is reliability personified. While in school he has held about every kind of job from Treasurer of Y. M. C. A. to Janitor of the football field, and made good in all of them with a vengeance. We are proud of his executive ability.

OLIVE GRAYBURN, Ph.B.

Doane Academy 1912. Euterpe. Vice Pres. Keystone Club (3). Pres. (4).

Here you see the Mona Lisa of our little school, always smiling yet inscrutable. We think there must be a man in the case, back in dear old Pennsylvania. But in the meantime we must be content to bestow unrequited confidences on our capable friend.

WINIFRED HAMILTON, Ph.B.

Kankakee High 1911. Euterpe. Pres. Student Government (4). Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (3).

"Winnie" carried such a winning smile through her first three years that she was finally elected to reign over Shepardson. She has governed supremely, wielding the sceptre of kindness and love. Prof. Kull expects to place her law in future History courses as superior to that of the Medes and Persians.

1915 ADYTUM

"Ez" is one of Denison's real social leaders, and as such he is a great success. He has piloted his class through the important Sophomore and Senior years, too. The Gospel teams value his services highly. We will greatly miss him next year.

JOSEPHINE HILLIARD, PH.B.

Σ Δ Φ. Newark High 1911. Euterpe.
Assistant in English (4).

"Jo's" happy giggle may be heard almost anywhere "Jo" is to be found. In spite of this she is a dignified little Senior and is one of 1915's English stars. She has given her loyal support to every phase of college life, and it is with regret that we see her leave.

JOSEPH R. HOY, PH.B.

West Liberty State Normal 1911.
Rh.B. Calliope. Pres. Calliope (4).

"Joe" is a ministerial student. If you do not believe this, ask him. He is wise enough to keep his mouth shut until he has something to say, so he don't talk as much as most of us. He is a particular friend of "Willie's" and is sure to make good.

VIOLA MAY JOHNSON, PH.B.

K Z. Doane Academy 1914. Euterpe.
Pres. Euterpe (4). Vice Pres.
Geological Society (4). Y. W. C.
A. Cabinet (3). Secretary (4).

Viola is one of the busiest bodies in school; always doing something for somebody else, yet never too busy to do just one more thing. She must be some relation to a centipede to have accomplished everything she has done. She is game for any good time, and enters into all college activities,

Grace, although a very modest girl, has a winning way about her. She has sung her way through college and we hope that she will have always the same happy and merry disposition. Her correspondence course takes a great deal of her time.

"Shorty" is just as full of pep as anybody we know. No matter how far ahead or behind Denison may be, "Peanut" is always on hand with a "Denison U." He has about as many decorations as a German General. One of the heroes of "SO BE IT."

EDWARD P. MILLS, PH.B.

K Σ . Franklin. Class Pres. (3). Debate Council (3). Debate (3, 4). Varsity Cross C. (2). Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (3).

It is said that the Phi Beta Kappas kept their eye on "Eddie" during his first two years in school, but they soon gave it up as a bad job. No one would imagine that this shy lad would fuss the Sem, but reports have it that he used to do so in his Freshman year.

ROBERT S. MORRIS, PH.B.

B Θ II. Franklin. East High (Cleveland). D.D.D. (1, 2, 3). Pres. Franklin (4).

Just to look at "Bob" you might think he was a "nut," but he is really much better than he looks. During the summer months he is a business man, during the winter a quiet student. He can smell a rough-house four miles away. His greatest pride is Franklin Lit., and his chief recreation dramatics.

WAYNE C. OVERTURE, PH.B.

Φ Δ Θ. Newark High. Calliope.
Pres. Newark Club (4). Assistant in Education (4).

Everybody has been wondering what that title, "Assistant in the Department of Education" means, but so far Wayne hasn't let out the graft. Wayne is one of those fellows who is always pleasant and agreeable with everyone, and he will leave Denison with the best wishes of every person in school.

VIVIAN PERRY, PH.B.

Chillicothe High 1911. Euterpe.

Vivian Bertha Perry is her name, but her friends call her "Vid." She has accomplished much in her work in the Conservatory, and her talking machine has been the chief delight of the Sem. Whatever she undertakes, Vivian is an enthusiastic worker, and stands by it to the end.

RANDOLPH RECTOR, PH.B.

Pawtucket High. Franklin. Varsity Track (2). Cross-Country (2, 3, 4). Vice Pres. Franklin (4). Assistant in English. Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4).

Ask "Randy" whether his home is Pawtucket or Nantucket. Rhode Island has produced two great men—"Dick" and "Randy"—and they both came to Granville. "Randy" has shown great fear of the college at the foot of the hill, but he may get over that. Meanwhile, "A man's a man for a' that," and well worth knowing.

R-E-E-S-E spells All-Ohio in about anything you could mention. "Dave" has gained immense renown and kept his mental poise—two great achievements. If there's anything doing anywhere, look for "Dave" there. SO BE IT.

"Marge" is one of those girls who can really accomplish a good deal in her college course and be quite a butterfly at the same time. She has taken her place in every part of college life, as her "obituary" shows. She has never told us what she is going to do.

"Trib" used to be quite a track man, but lately he hasn't had much time for athletics—for various reasons. However he is quite a shark in his studies, as is shown by his English Assistantship and the fact that it took him only three and one-half years to finish his course here.

IRENE TULLOSS, A.B.

After taking first honors at Newark High, Irene came over to try her fortune at D. U. Since her arrival she has been busily filling her record with A's, but she is always ready for any fun. Senior Poem

Class Fifteen's banner wide we fling,
Both far and near her praise we sing.
Among us now are some whom Fate
Has destined to be truly great.
There may be doubt, there may be fears,
There may be toil through long, long years,
But spite of care and toilsome grind,
Each one success will surely find,
When his high purpose to fulfill,
He learns to say, "I can and will."
We can, we will in all we do.
We can do right, we will be true,
We will do that which to us falls,
And ever answer duty's calls.
And Alma Mater dear, to thee
Fifteen will ever loyal be.

History of the Class of 1916

IN 1912 all Denison looked upon us for the first time and commented on the excellence of the Freshman Class. As our numbers have diminished, our value has increased accordingly, for such specimens as ourselves are exceedingly rare in the world. Yet we are not of the sort that is kept under glass cases. Great vigor appeared early in the first year, and continues even to the present day.

The Sophomores surprised us at first, and secured quite a little hair before we got started. However, when the day for the Scrap came, we showed them that one year's start was not enough. A little originality made us take down the obsolete flagpole with '15's "banner" on it, intending to put up a good one the next year. After winning this flag rush in record time, we let the Sophomores win the day according to tradition. Our Freshman Stunt was not marred by rain, the very elements recognizing our value.

In our Sophomore year we inaugurated a new kind of flag rush, but it gave too much advantage to the Freshmen, so we lost and the style was not continued. However, we won the football game and outpulled the weightier Freshmen in the Tug-of-war. We then took up the Football Banquet and decreed that it should be an annual custom for the Sophomore Class to manage this affair. In the spring we engaged in the last Class Scrap. A very enjoyable party was held in the East Dorm, where eggs and water predominated in the refreshments. When this party was ended at 12:30 we left with a feeling of sorrow, although we could not foresee that we would never witness another affair of the kind.

Last May, when Dr. Chamberlain was inaugurated, the Class of '16, then Sophomores, were given charge of the decorations for the Inaugural Banquet in Swasey Gymnasium. Beech limbs and dogwood blooms were used to bank the walls on the first floor, while beech and spirea were used in the railing of the gallery. All day on the day before the Banquet the boys worked bringing in the branches, and at five o'clock on the next morning nearly the whole class was on hand to do the final decorating. Several members worked to get the tables arranged even while the exercises were going on up on the hill. And the next Saturday the boys met and cleaned up the entire decorations which we had placed. It is not nearly so hard to prepare for an event as to clean up after it, but 1916 showed its thoroughness by finishing its part at once.

We have always been a sensible class. When winter comes we put on our warm blue-and-gold toques and remain safe and well until spring. We dislike incongruous trappings. Perhaps that is because 1916 has no need of monogrammed crutches or peppermint canes to support her dignity. We like feasts and good cheer, as they will tell you at Alexandria, where many a fowl has been slain for our sake. Best of all, we are a very amicable class, and we never quarrel.

Wherever you see an activity progressing, you may be sure that there is a Junior behind it, making it go. Our class seems to have a special contract to furnish noteworthy examples for the school in every line of work. Some of our number are heroes on the Big Red Team, and represent Denison's future hope.

This year the Junior Banquet was one of an ethereal nature. It was eaten in spirit only, for after we had planned definitely to fulfill the old custom, a great need was called to our attention, and we sent our pink ice cream to feed the refugees from the war-stricken regions. Perhaps some Belgian boy will swallow a portion of the Denison Spirit that went with the sacrifice, and it will lead him to America and our Alma Mater.

As a monument of this year, the third in our life at college, we leave the Adytum, which will preserve the memories of the people and school you knew, as it was in the time when its scribes wore Blue and Gold. We are the Juniors, the Class of 1916. Look at us well, for the next time you see us we will be Seniors.

Oh, come all ye Freshmen and all ye Sophomores, too,
Come all ye Seniors and Alumni of D. U.

Take off your hats, boys, as we go marching by,
For we're the Class of '16 and the best you can't deny.

Class of 1916, Alma Mater's praise!
Sing it lustily and far and wide.
Sing it without ceasing, till it comes increasing,
'Round the world and back with echoes from the other side.

Class of 1916, Denison is strong.
See her banner floating free and fair!
A thought arises glorious, to see her thus victorious,
And know that we were those who helped to plant her standard there.

Class of 1916, come from near and far!
Hand on hand, we swear by Blue and Gold!
If Denison lay bleeding, or help or strength were needing,
We'd be the first to hear her call and aid her as of old.

History of the Class of 1917

ANOTHER year has slipped by and we stop to look at what we have accomplished. We have a past full of achievements to look back upon. The Fall of 1913 saw us enter Denison, a mighty class, willing to work, and one which has shown itself loyal and true.

One day that Fall the annual Freshman-Sophomore scrap occurred. Some of our men experienced a little too much of the creek that day, but they decided never to let that occur again. If you were to look in our memory books, you might find a grain of corn, well soaked by the rain which fell at our first class stunt, and springing up into tender memories of that same stunt. If mud could be kept as a reminder, you would certainly find some of that left from our Spring stunt at the Old Town Spring.

Nineteen-fourteen finds us back, ready to work, striving to advance the standard of old Denison, giving and getting what we can. Since we were not permitted to have a scrap this year, we tried to show our spirit in some other way. Accordingly the whole school was invited to witness our football game with the Vassar Vets. Various characters were impersonated in an original manner. Strange to say, the mute representative of '18 made no outcry, even when he was plunged in the waters of Raccoon. The members of the Class of '18 very evidently believed in "Safety First." After this we went to Cat Run for our Fall Stunt. Later we met in Doane Gymnasium for another stunt, at which we learned each other's first names.

But our main claim to distinction rests in our canes, which you see walking around with the men of our class. We believe in leading, not following, hence these novel insignia. The scarlet and grey caps which you see mark the wearer as one of our number.

So you can see that we have been making history, history whose effects will be seen in the years to come.

Sophomore Poem

When first we wondering climbed the sunny terraced hill,
 Old Denison to us was just a name—no more.
 But Autumn's skies and wealth of beauty caused a thrill
 That promised much to those who ne'er had seen her store.
 From Doane's bright ivy'd walls, from Barney's windows broad,
 We gazed upon a glory that left us almost awed.

O'er a varied earth all bright with leaves of red and green,
 Old Winter crept with noiseless tread and magic hands,
 Leaving the land all wrapt in cloak of brightest sheen;
 With ice-bound lakes and streams like long and silvery bands,
 With dark green pines and shrubbery decked in purest white;
 'Twas then King Winter filled our hearts with new delight.

When earth once more awoke with April's rain a-falling,
 From Licking's hills a song of welcome gaily rose.
 In every wood, from every field, blithe Spring was calling,
 And Nature would 'mid softest green her charms dispose.
 To June with all her fairies, allegiance true we swore,
 Thinking an earth more perfect could never be in store.

Yet not this endless round of beauty has expressed
 The deep-felt spirit which we know at Denison.
 A nameless something dwells in every loyal breast,
 A longing wish to be her honored son.
 'Tis this that e'er inspires her children young and old
 And joins them with a bond that each will ever hold.

History of the Class of 1918

LAST Fall finished a splendid vacation for the Class of 1918 and ushered us into school with the enthusiasm which has remained with us. Denison and Granville were shown to us at their very best this Fall, in honor, of course, of '18.

So far we have been accused of violating numerous traditions. The first and greatest offense was the prohibition of the Class Scrap, but this was hardly our fault. It made the Freshman-Sophomore football game all the more interesting. This game was an honor to the Class of 1918. It showed the stuff we are made of and the outcome mattered little — the playing was the thing.

There was at least one honored tradition which we upheld. We tried to hold our Freshman stunt in the rain, and we succeeded. However, this did not dampen our spirits, although it did our clothes, and it caused us to get better acquainted.

The breakfast at Arbutus Ridge was one of the happiest times this year, due partly to the fact that it occurred on one of the most perfect days of a perfect Fall.

So far this has been such a happy and prosperous year for the Class of 1918 that the greatest thing we could wish for would be that every year would be just as successful.

“Livy”

“His look is earnest and hopeful as he glances a last time over his array — but full of pluck and hope — the sort of a look I hope to see on my General’s face when I go out to fight.”—Tom Brown at Rugby.

“Livy,” during the time he has been at the head of our athletics, has made a record of which any coach in the state might well be proud. From mediocre teams struggling to maintain a fair position among the middling teams, he has put us at the top of the best teams in the state. For two successive years we have had the undisputed championship of the state in basketball, while in football he has gradually been developing his teams until this year he has attained that pinnacle for which he has been striving, the football championship.

Dr. Hunt last year made the statement, “What I consider one of the greatest goods I ever did for Denison was when I secured Walter J. Livingston to head our athletics.”

“Livy” by the wonderful strength of his character and his intense enthusiasm in all our teams has made himself the idol of every man in Denison.

“Coonie”

In the short time Professor Coons has been at the head of our managerial department we have made rapid strides to the front. His ability in obtaining for us recognition from the schools about us, both large and small, has been indeed remarkable. Our schedules have been arranged so that the various teams were met in the order of their strength and ability. His keen perception has been noted in all his results concerning the procuring of dates with as many schools as possible, yet not overworking the men. The championship teams of which we are justly proud, were able to acquire their success through his keen foresight in management. Everything in his power has been done for the comfort of the various teams. Manager Coons has obtained among the other managers of our state an enviable reputation, in that he stands for a square deal in everything.

We are justly proud of “Coonie” and hope for his continued and enlarged success as head of our managerial department.

Denison Athletics

ALTHOUGH the glorification of old Denison and the maintenance of her proudest traditions must always be among the leading purposes of our athletics, there is yet a deeper significance attached to the labors of those students who strive for success in the various branches of competitive sport. Our teams do not represent the present University alone — in a broader sense they represent the entire Alumni body of the University, and wherever regional Alumni organizations are found, there will also be found loyal hearts which look with pride on the achievements of the Big Red teams and who share with those at the University the hopes and fears which attend each athletic season. The deeds of our teams and the example and teaching of their heroes are a constant aid and inspiration to all sons of Denison. This is a fact to be constantly borne in mind by those who are now in the college. Whatever is done by us along athletic lines is done not for ourselves alone, but for others.

The Football Championship

FOOTBALL at Denison in 1914 entered upon the bright ascendancy of a new era. For the first time in history, Denison won the championship of the Ohio Conference. Denison had three men universally selected by Ohio sport critics on the mythical All-Ohio eleven, and furthermore Denison was recognized as one of the most perfect exponents of the new forward pass and lateral pass game in the Buckeye State. In achieving these prized successes the Big Red team opposed the best football teams of Ohio with the possible exception of State and Mt. Union.

It was a team that fought till the last minute. In fact many of the games were won in the final fleeting minutes of a desperately contested hour of football battle. Denison's first championship football eleven in the Ohio Conference was composed of eleven well-trained athletes. The team had an exceptionally strong backfield, one of the greatest in Ohio; but the line was weak between the ends and the center, in comparison to the rest of the team.

Perfection of the open style of play was the reason for a Denison success. Coach Walter J. Livingston earnestly groomed his men in the various new methods of attack. His proteges attested their ability to put the advice of the sterling leader into practice by making consistent gains with his plays.

Here are the season's results:

Oct. 3	Denison 0, Cincinnati 13; at Granville
Oct. 10	Denison 20, Oberlin 0; at Oberlin
Oct. 17	Denison 20, Ohio U. 0; at Granville
Oct. 24	Denison 33, Otterbein 12; at Westerville
Oct. 31	Denison 16, Wesleyan 7; at Granville

Nov. 7	Denison 40, Marietta 0; at Granville
Nov. 14	Denison 40, Miami 33; at Oxford
Nov. 21	Denison 14, Reserve 0; at Cleveland
Total: Denison 183, Opponents 65

In the initial contest of the gridiron season Denison was defeated by Cincinnati. The Big Red eleven on the day of this disaster failed to exhibit any of the power that was evident in the succeeding games. It was the first game, and Denison was not yet in condition to contend with one of the most able of Ohio teams. One week later improvement was evinced in a victory over Oberlin, 20-0. Ohio was defeated by the same score the next Saturday at Granville. Otterbein gave us a good game but failed and then came Wesleyan.

As in the games of yesteryear, the old Denison-Wesleyan fighting spirit was in evidence. A perspective of previous Wesleyan and Denison games gave Denison the best prospects of victory. But it was only in the last quarter, after Wesleyan had scored the first touchdown, that the Big Red eleven awoke to the exigency and scored two touchdowns and a field goal in the waning ten minutes of a brilliantly fought contest.

Marietta was disposed of with slight exertion, although it must not be said that they had a subordinate team, as they had not been defeated prior to the Denison loss. The best game of the entire year was the contest against Miami. This was considered by many capable judges as the most spectacular game they had ever witnessed and possibly the most dramatic ever staged in the Buckeye State.

Upon this contest, which was played at Oxford, depended the championship of the Conference, as Miami had previously defeated Mt. Union, Denison's nearest and most-respected competitor. This game was a concrete illustration of Denison persistence and nerve. Never, with the exception of a time in the first quarter, was Livingston's team in the lead till the final period—but it was the final quarter that counted. Denison went to work in this last division of the game with the score 27-20 against her. In the concluding twelve minutes of the quarter, after Miami had scored first, the Big Red eleven placed the oval behind Miami's goal-line three times for a total of twenty points. Forward passing, lateral passing, and sensational open field running won the day for Denison.

Reserve played consistently but could not hold Denison on several occasions with distressing results to their cause. This last game settled the championship of the Conference on Livingston's team.

The Conference standing, based on percentage alone, was:

	Played	Won	Lost	Pct.
Denison	6	5	1	.833
Mt. Union	5	4	1	.800
Akron	5	4	1	.800
Miami	6	4	2	.667
Cincinnati	6	4	2	.667
Ohio U.	6	3	3	.500
Reserve	7	3	4	.429
Oberlin	7	3	4	.429
Case	8	3	5	.375
Kenyon	6	2	4	.333
Wesleyan	7	2	5	.286
Wooster	8	2	6	.250
Wittenberg	4	0	4	.000

*Ohio State played three games—Wesleyan, Case and Reserve—but they are not considered in the race, although they won all, as State is in the Western Conference and as the teams State played were of mediocre ability this year.

In offensive strength the team was unsurpassed in Ohio, but the tackles and guards were too light for the rest of the team. Sometimes the line held well, but the forwards did not parallel the power of the backfield. Many men on the team achieved unique distinction because of their rare abilities. Nelson Rupp has been lauded as the greatest college halfback in Ohio and one of the best in the country. Carl Thiele, left end, was recognized similarly for his work in that department. He could make the best teams in the college world. Reese, center and Captain of the eleven, was generously applauded for his work in the middle of the line. He was accorded an All-Ohio position without dissension. Roudebush must also be recognized as the best forward passer in Ohio and one of the best in college football. Forty-five yards was his longest completed pass in a game, but a sixty-yard one squirmed out of the receiver's arms in the Miami fray.

But the Ohio Conference football championship never would have been won by Denison if these unusual players had not exemplified the teachings of Coach Livingston and had not co-operated with the other men who played regularly or "subbed" to heighten the honor of Denison on the football field. The Big Red eleven was great as a team of players and great as a group of gentlemen.

REESE—Our All-Ohio center is some center in every game. He makes his man look as if he had been shot at and hit. "Dave" is one of those rare men who are all over the field at once. He is always with the ball and is a shark at getting or breaking up forward passes. They say that no man is indispensable, but it will be some job to find a man who will do the work that our captain has done.

LADD—"Laddie," the captain of our next football "champ" team, is the best little quarter we have had around this neck of the woods for some time. He has a head on him that would be a credit to Napoleon, and he uses it to the best advantage. He can handle punts with the best of them, and it is a real privilege to see him tackle. It is a mighty good thing that we will have him with us next year.

RUPP—"Nocky" is without peer in the football world. He was a unanimous choice for All-Ohio halfback and he is only a Sophomore. If he keeps up the pace he has set himself, he should make All-American before he graduates. He always gains; the man who could stop "Nocky" on the open field or any other place was some player. He will shine for us for two more years.

THIELE—Our little "Dutch" made All-Ohio end, and he well deserved the honor. He has no peer in the art of receiving forward passes, from which he scored many a touchdown. As a defensive end he was a tower of strength; it took some tall hustling to get around him. We are mighty thankful that he will be on our team in 1915.

1915 ADYTUM

ROUDEBUSH—We are very much afraid that "Roudy" will be drafted by the Germans to throw their 42 cm. shells for them, for he sure does put a lot of push behind his passes and hits the mark every time. Beyond the shadow of a doubt, he is the best passer in this or any other state, and moreover he can carry the ball with the best of them. We will miss him at left half next year.

WILLIAMS—"Rox" was our utility man this year. He played at tackle or at fullback, and he played both positions well. When he carried the ball he was sure of a substantial gain, and at tackle he stopped everything that came his way. He is built close to the ground and travels over it like a shot. "Rox" is a Senior and will be missed next year.

BIGGS—"Biggsy" was one of the mainstays on the line again. The opposing tackle always had a lot of trouble with him, for he is big and husky, and uses his weight to the best advantage. Very few plays got through him this year, and we hate to see him go. It will take a mighty good man to fill his shoes.

JONES—"Jonesie's" first and last year of Varsity football was a decided success. At quarter he played a fine game, always using his team to the best advantage without working them to death. When he carried the ball he was always good for a gain. Through center was his special play.

1915 ADYTUM

BROCK—"Babe" as a running mate for "Dutch" at end was a wonder. His defensive and offensive work were fine. The word "block" became synonymous with Brock. He is fast, heady, and a very fine player. We can rejoice that he will be playing there again next season.

WILLIS—"Monk" is always a reliable player. His knowledge of football, with his weight and determination, made him one of the best linemen that we have had in a long time. He was sure to take care of himself and others in the scrimmages. It is a good thing that he will be here another season.

MARSH—"Nasty" played his regular position at guard again this year in the same steady and reliable manner that he played it last season. There was this difference though—that he played it a whole lot better, which was going some. When a hole was needed, he could be relied upon to open it up. He will be a very valuable man on the Varsity next year.

STANKARD—With "Stank" at guard the opposing players did not work so well. He made good this year by his steady, reliable playing. We know that he will be there when he is needed, and next year's team will find him a big help.

1915 ADYTUM

CLARY—One of the Sophomores who made good this year with a vengeance was "Dick." All through the season he played a steady, consistent game at guard. This year's experience will make him all the better man for the two years that he has yet to serve the team.

HICKMAN—"Hick" is a born football player. He has always delivered the goods at the fullback job. He is a hard, plucky player and a good line plunger. We knew that when "Hick" took the ball he would make a good gain before he was downed. He is a Junior, so we will see him again.

BARRINGTON—"Sam" won his first "D" this year and surely deserves one. One of the heaviest men on the squad, with lots of vim and bulldog tenacity, "Sam" was truly a tower of strength to the line. Many an opposing back has failed to gain through him.

SMITH—"Smittie" played a mighty good game for Denison at the guard position. He is not very big, but he surely was there when it came to stopping bucks through that position. He was good, too, on the offensive, for he could turn his man in or out when the time came. We can count on him for next year.

MANAGER FOX—Fox is a born manager and as Student Manager of an athletic team has no equal, unless it be former manager Babb. "Foxie" knows how to stretch a nickel and yet show the team all the luxuries of a traveler's life.

SCHOCK—Lee was unfortunate this year, in having his leg hurt so seriously in the Otterbein game that he had to stay out the rest of the season. However, "Livy" recommended him for a letter and we surely are all glad to see him get it.

COACH LIVINGSTON — This year has seen the best team that "Livy" has ever turned out. In spite of handicaps, he built up a champion team from material that was, with a few exceptions, just about average. This is a real test of ability and it certainly showed the stuff that is in the man. "Livy" is the embodiment of the spirit of Denison athletics. We take off our hats to the best coach in the state.

within the confines of Cleveland Hall. So agreeable were the surroundings, that Mr. State Basketball Pennant decided to retain his abode for another year at least.

Why did Denison win the championship? Any person who had the privilege of watching the team in action would not be so rude as to ask that question. The reason was self-evident. Denison outclassed all other teams in the state so far that after the first six games had been played there was practically no doubt of our state championship possibilities. Enormous scores were amassed during the UNDISPUTED Basketball Champions of Ohio! For the second consecutive time, Denison's "Big Red" quintet has surpassed all contemporaries in the annual struggle between the colleges of the Buckeye State, for honors on the basketball floor. The title was brought here in the season of 1913 and has been reposing blissfully along with numerous other trophies, season. Sixteen contests were staged with Ohio colleges; only one was lost.

Our old stumbling block, Ohio State, secured five more points than Denison, in a game waged in Columbus before an excited audience in which were two hundred loyal Denisonians. Some spectators are of the opinion that the game more resembled football than basketball, however, State won 27 to 22. But we avenged ourselves by defeating Wesleyan and Oberlin by wide margins. It is possible that the team had gained too much self-confidence by the time State appeared on the schedule, and a loss at the hands of the Scarlet and Grey basket-tossers tended to whip the squad into shape to win the championship; anyway that was the result.

It was a team of tried veterans which started to win laurels for the Red when the season opened, with one exception; Thiele, a Sophomore, played his first season, successfully filling the vacancy created by the graduation of Rupp during the previous summer. The squad was remarkably versatile. Whether on the offensive or defensive, their rapid play was an enigma to opponents. Once the ball was in possession of the Big Red team, five men knew exactly how they were going to score a basket, and almost inevitably the ball would trickle through the meshes as a result of some excellent pass-work.

Unquestionably the best game of the season was played with a professional team. This was none other than the far-famed Buffalo Germans, sometimes spoken of as the best aggregation of basketball players performing on the court. But they could not master five determined members of best Ohio college team. It was the most brilliant and scientifically played game of the entire year and it resulted in a 52 to 38 triumph for Denison.

Under the leadership of Prouty at center, the Big Red quintet surpassed the efforts of our time-honored enemy, Ohio Wesleyan, at home and abroad. Oberlin was forced to accept an ignominious defeat on her own floor, 42 to 23. Many others of the best Ohio teams, such as Cincinnati, Ohio U., and Wooster, were bested by large majorities.

During the season Denison scored 897 points in college games, compared with 310 for her opponents, an average of 1 and 2-5 points per minute of play.

The Season

WHEN the call for baseball men was sent out, all of the 1913 team responded with the exception of Ashley and Bradford, and there seemed to be plenty of new material to fill their places. However, a "jinx" of some sort seemed to be on the track of the team throughout the entire season. At times the "jinx" appeared to have been buried, only to rise again in the next hard-fought game. Bats were broken, ankles hurt in practice, eligibility rules entered the field, and most games were lost by one run.

After only a few days of outdoor practice, the team made a trip to Athens which resulted in a three-to-three tie, the game being called in the fourth inning on account of rain. Muskingum was then defeated at home on a muddy field, Black driving in the winning run in the ninth with a pretty single to right.

Miami stopped in Granville long enough to trade us the first of two games for a beautiful jinx, Denison getting the jinx. "Livy" sprang a surprise by sending Adams to the mound in this game. "Babe" pitched big league ball up to the seventh, when Miami scored four runs. Biggs then went in and pitched air-tight ball the rest of the game, but Miami won 7 to 6. The second game with Miami, at Oxford, they also took, by the score of 7 to 0, Pierce pitching wonderful ball.

Kenyon for the first time in two years defeated us. "Schweg" held them to two hits, but poor baserunning lost us the game 1 to 2. The team which came up from the muddy waters of the Ohio was sent back to Marietta with the smaller end of an 11-to-0 score, and the "jinx" seemed to be gone. But the next game showed that it was right on the job. Wooster 3, Denison 2.

Strong hitting featured the next game at Akron. Black poled out two doubles, "Matty" got a three-bagger, and "Dave" knocked a home run over the fence in the first half of the tenth, giving us a one-run lead. Akron came back in her half of the tenth, and got two men on before Thomas followed "Dave's" example. Akron 5, Denison 4.

We took Otterbein across 4 to 3, but shortly afterwards Wesleyan handed us a 6-to-7 defeat and a little later another 5-to-7. Yoakum stepped into the box against Oberlin, and helped to send them home with the little end of 5 to 4.

Wittenberg defeated us in a fast game 8 to 7, while State came over and beat us 7 to 0, and a while later Ohio U. came back with a postponed game and we lost 0 to 3.

The Alumni being all that was left, the team took its spite out on them by driving in 16 runs while the boys of former days were gathering one.

1915 ADYTUM

CAPTAIN SCHWEGMAN—“Schweg” was not up to his old-time form due to some torn ligaments in his throwing arm. At times he showed flashes of that old south-paw whip, but the strain was too much. He pitched fine ball in the Kenyon game and deserved to win, only allowing two hits. However, he was forced to watch the game from the bench the most of the season.

BIGGS—The mainstay of the pitching staff fell upon the shoulders of “Biggsy.” He was called upon on many occasions to put a crimp in a slugging rally or plug it up before it began. “Biggsy” surely has some smoke and he should be in true form this year.

BURRER—“Blondy” is the man who put the swiftness in speed. The way he galloped around the bases would make a hare look sick. He covered all his territory in the outfield and sometimes helped the other boys. He was the man picked to head the batting list because of his dependable manner of reaching first.

MARSH—“Nasty” was the only new man to receive a sweater. His playing in the right garden was steady, and when he came to bat it was generally conceded that he would get a hit between first and second. How he won the first game with Ohio, or rather how he kept them from winning, is one of his “favorites.”

MATTHEWS—“Matty” was the hardest hitter on the squad, and a good receiver. He always kept the team keyed up to the fighting pitch. He was handicapped in his pegging by a bad shoulder, but despite this he played his position in a most creditable manner.

BLACK—Lester's playing around the initial sack and his hitting were a revelation to Denison enthusiasts. His handling of over-head throws and picks-ups was remarkable, and at bat he could always be relied upon to deliver in the pinches.

CAPTAIN-ELECT ROUDEBUSH—Too much cannot be written about "Roudy." He is undoubtedly the best short-stop in the state. The faster they come the better he likes them; his quick underhand snaps and his pegs from deep short were features of his playing, and at bat he was equally strong. We're expecting him to lead us through a successful season this year.

PFEIFFER—"Dutch" had an awful time finding his batting eye. It disappeared before the first game and it was only found after a long and careful search, but then he came back with a vengeance and displayed his old-time form. His fielding was clean and at times sensational. He was the best talker in the outfield.

REESE—"Dave" has a system all his own of holding a man off a base and his method of blocking the runner who is sliding into the base looks dangerous, but he is yet to be injured. Dave's greatest delight is to attach wings to the ball and give it a beautiful long ride in the closing innings of some hard-fought game; at Akron Dave had his best day at bat. His fielding was clean and steady.

MORROW—"Tony" missed one day at practice and that was the day the pictures were taken. He held down the keystone sack with all the cleverness he displayed in former years. He was an adept at worrying a base-runner and was a fast man on the paths himself.

MANAGER CHAILLE—As a manager "Hal" was all to the good. Some say he is likely to look after the Detroit Tigers this year. We hope he will have a little mercy on Cobb and the rest of that crew. Anyway, "Hal" is all right, and for lining off the field and similar duties he can't be beat.

THO Denison's track team, which worked so consistently last Spring, should go no little amount of credit. All Winter long, day after day, the track-squad worked out in the gymnasium and as soon as the field and track outside were in condition the squad was out there.

The season began early with the fifth annual inter-class indoor track-meet. The highest number of points was scored by the Freshmen. The track season proper began with the indoor meet at Athens where Denison's score nearly doubled that made by Ohio U.

There were five meets in all including the Ohio Intercollegiate Athletic Association meet at Columbus, and the team was very successful in all of these.

Ohio U. came to Granville on April 27th for a return meet only to be defeated by a much larger score than before.

The score board will show Denison's only defeat to have occurred at Oxford, and under ordinary conditions this might have been another victory, but things didn't break right. On Friday night the team had to get outside in the middle of the night and wait for the Dayton fire-department to put out a fire in their hotel. This of course was not particularly conducive to rest, and then to finish up "Pete" Prouty was unable to get into this meet, which we lost by a narrow margin.

The last meet on Beaver field was the one with Otterbein in which the team lost one first in the course of the afternoon.

The final meet of the season was the "Big Six" at Columbus.

Denison placed fourth in this meet with nine points to her credit. Captain Miller placed in the mile; Prouty took a first in the discus throw; and Captain-elect Chase placed in the four-forty. The work of all the track men was deserving of merit and all of them were good, consistent runners. "Bob" Miller and "Pete" Prouty were the Seniors on the team and both will be greatly missed in the coming season. "Fred" Chase did great work in the quarter mile and in the relay team he was anchor man and will no doubt lead another equally successful season.

Shepardson Athletics

ATHLETICS as an organized department of the regular college work for Shepardson girls, is comparatively recent. Until the time of Miss Marie Adkins the girls' athletics consisted mainly in del-sarte, tennis and croquet! Del-sarte was principally lung developing exercises. The room used by the physical culture department was located in the old chapel building which stood near the center of the present-day Shepardson Campus. Before Recital Hall was built, the room was used for assembly purposes and del-sarte exercises. Later pulley machines were added to the unique equipment. Under Miss Adkins' management basketball was added to the list of sports. The contestants did not have to contend with the present slippery floors, for they played on the green campus. When the chapel building burned, the athletic headquarters were placed in the basement of the old club house until Doane Gymnasium was completed in 1905.

Since the building of this well-equipped gymnasium Shepardson athletics have maintained a many sided interest. Miss Adams, the first instructor in the new building, instituted a lasting interest in all girls' sports, which has been well supported by her successors.

In 1913 Miss Bradstreet came to us, reminding the girls that athletics are not always a joke. The result of her work thus far has been to raise the standard of the work in our gym. to a very high degree. At the present time the list of sports shows a great increase over that of Miss Adkins' time. We now participate in basketball, tennis, archery, hockey, swimming and indoor baseball. Besides these, we have an excellent gymnasium equipment, including a race-track, and well managed classes.

Although our All-Shepardson basketball team has not been permitted to leave town to meet the teams of other schools, the few times we have met them on our own floor our girls have shown themselves up very favorably.

In addition to the many sports of Shepardson, each year a carnival is held under the supervision of the physical instructor in honor of the founders of Shepardson College.

The prospects for 1915 seem to indicate that this will be one of the very best years that Shepardson athletics have ever experienced.

Shepardson Basketball for 1914

THE basketball season for the year 1914 was one of the best ever seen at Shepardson. Intense interest was maintained in the interclass games throughout the entire season. Class spirit was rampant and every girl showed her class loyalty on Saturday nights. The Class of 1915 captured the championship banner from 1916 by coming through the entire season without the loss of a game. Captain Schropp is to be congratulated on bringing her team through such a successful season. The Junior line-up was: Hazel Bolin, center; Edna Schropp and Virginia Putnam, forwards; and Lillian Boggs and Marie Lyon, guards. The class numerals were presented on Carnival Day to each girl who had played in at least one half of three different games during the season. Each of the six girls chosen for the All-Shepardson team was presented with an "S" at the same time.

VAIL

ALMA BRUMBACK, Center—"Brummy" has been a noted basketball player ever since her prep. days. The height at which she can reach the ball is marvelous. She says little but works fast, and is of great value to her team for her level head.

VIRGINIA PUTNAM, Forward—"Put" is the wonder of Shepardson. It is absolutely foolish to attempt to guard her, for she is everywhere at once. The rate at which she can shoot baskets is something never seen before at Shepardson.

HARRIET BARRINGTON, Guard—Harriet represented the Seniors on the All-Shepardson. She filled her place admirably, and the ball seldom rolled into the basket when she was guarding.

LILLIAN BOGGS, Guard—"Lil" is certainly some guard. Speed and accuracy were her main points, and it seemed to her opponents that she was everywhere at once.

EUNICE VAIL, Forward—Vim and vigor go with Vail. She was an enthusiastic worker on the Sophomore team and well deserved her place on the All-Shepardson. Her work was steady rather than spectacular; the kind that counts.

HAZEL BOLIN, Sub Center—Hazel is small but like all small people she has high aspirations. She excels in athletic sports, and basketball is not the least of her accomplishments by any means.

Swimming

THROUGHOUT the winter season when basketball was in full swing the swimming pool was quiet, but as soon as Spring arrived and the basketball season was over, a great deal of Shepardson spirit turned toward swimming and the approaching contest. Each night the pool was open a large number of the girls turned out. The final contest took place early in May. On this final night seven girls appeared. It at first seemed difficult to determine who should be pronounced Shepardson swimming champion, but the judges finally decided in favor of Miss Alma Brumback, who for the second time received the honor. Miss Brumback has for a number of years been envied by all those fond of swimming and she was not a disappointment to any on this contest night. As a reward Miss Brumback had her name engraved for the second time on the silver loving cup, received an "S" and a Denison seal spoon.

Tennis

WHEN Spring finally put in appearance in 1914, the tennis courts proved to be as popular as ever. At any hour of the morning or afternoon one might have heard gay laughter and the bounce of balls on the tight strung racquets. Among all the girls who haunted this busy part of the campus Margaret Colwell and Laura Harris played a very important part, so the dwellers in the halls were not surprised when they learned that these two were to contend for the final laurels on the court. Doane Academy should well be proud of her able representative, for Miss Colwell came off the court victorious, receiving in recognition of her powers a fine new racquet.

CARNIVAL DAY

Carnival Day 1914

CARNIVAL Day of 1914 celebrated not only Founders' Day at Shepardson but also the inauguration of Dr. Chamberlain as President. Because of the attending circumstances, all athletic performances were excluded and a very pretty program of graceful dances was arranged by the Shepardson physical director. At three-thirty the exercises were opened by a grand march by all the girls of Denison University. The Seniors led in caps and gowns. The other classes followed in the order of their rank. This march was one of the very best ever seen at Shepardson, due to the variety of figures and the many colors of the costumes.

Following the march, the Junior dancing class, dressed in quaint colonial costumes, presented a Minuet which gave evidence of much work and excellent training.

A fascinating Japanese dance was the contribution of the preparatory students to this successful afternoon. Clothed in graceful Japanese robes, with fluttering fans much in evidence, they seemed to be the latest importation from the flowery kingdom.

The Sophomores came on with an entirely new dance for the school, it being a clever Sailors' Hornpipe. The girls were appropriately dressed in sailor costumes and much hilarity was exhibited over the peculiar steps.

Between the Sophomore and the Freshman dances Dean Judson awarded prizes of letters and numerals to those who had won them in athletic contests. Among the prizes were: The "S" to each of the All-Shepardson basketball team, class numerals for class basketball and tennis, and the "S" to the swimming and tennis champions.

Then the Freshmen, in their green trimmings, put in their appearance for a gay Irish lilt. The spirit with which this dance was given was characteristic only of the Freshmen and rendered it all the more interesting.

The last event of the afternoon was the beautiful May Pole dance, a Sophomore tradition, made all the more individual this year by the unusual Greek costumes of the participants. It was a fitting and picturesque close for such a program.

Turned Tables

First Prize Story

by FLORENCE FOSTER, '15

I TELL you fellows I won't take any girl to that prom. There isn't a girl in the country that's worth spending seventy-five dollars on merely for one dance." This came from Bob Ainsley, standing in the center of a group discussing the annual athletic hop.

"Look here, now, Bob. You know every man in school has got to attend and give this thing his support, or where will our finances end?" said "Spike" McGirk. All the rest of the crowd chimed in and expressed their sentiments very strongly about Bob's preposterous idea of not taking a fair one to the prom — the biggest social event of the year.

"Well, Spike, since you are so insistent upon my inviting someone and paying out my hard-earned cash on taxis, flowers, dinners and miscellaneous extravagances, pray tell us whom you are going to inflict with an invitation," said Bob.

"That's for me to know and you to find out," replied Spike in a very blase manner.

"I guess it wouldn't be very hard to guess. All those trips up to Mercer haven't been for nothing. You deluded me into going once and I never got into such a hopeless crowd in all my days. Why, that girl would talk herself hoarse in five minutes if you stayed long enough to listen," said Bob.

"Bob, it won't do you any good to rave on about the positive or negative virtues of girls in general. The decision of the court is against you and you will have to invite someone to the hop. If you don't I wouldn't give ten dollars for your peace of mind for the rest of the year," expounded Johnson.

"Fate is against me and for this once I will be a martyr to the cause. But for goodness sake, all of you clear out of here and give me time to think over this great calamity that has befallen me."

Left to himself Bob began to work out some plan of deliverance. He wasn't a girl-hater, strictly speaking, but he had come to a boys' school and always maintained that girls interfered with his course of study. Just at this time he was especially low in his finances and the Harvard-Yale game wasn't very far off. He would go to that if it took his last penny. He was generous with his allowance, but he always explained any lack of funds by saying that his father was a kind man but had medieval ideas on how the youth of the land should be taught to spend money.

"Well," thought Bob to himself, "they told me that I had to ask someone. So if I ask a girl and she can't come, my duty is done. The only thing for me to do is to make sure that whoever I ask will be unable to accept. I'll wait until Spike asks that girl up at Mercer and as soon as she has accepted I'll write and ask her, too, and of course she will have to refuse. Then I'll rest in peace."

A few days later Bob imparted his plan to an admiring Freshman who was sworn to secrecy, but who also would be a witness to the fact that Bob had done his best to find a partner.

Spike was altogether too gracious about offering to bring the mail from the postoffice for the next few days. But one evening he came into the room and sat down with a relieved air. "Bob," he said, "at last she has written me that she can come for the hop, and maybe I'm not glad. She will be the best dancer on the floor and now I won't have to worry about having a lame foot for a week after the thing is over. She's the only girl I would consider taking. I'd advise you not to put off the evil day too long or you will be laboring around with some girl who can't keep out of the way of her own feet."

"Don't you get exercised now, Spike," said Bob. "This is a weighty matter and you know I'm a man of deliberation.

No slur on your judgment of good dancing, but I know that no girl could be a poorer dancer than Miss Betty Krotzer of Mercer, Pa., whose praises you are singing so loudly at present. It's a good thing you are going to take her, though, because it would be a crime to spoil two couples, but since you are together we can mark time when we see you coming."

Spike only lit his pipe and smiled.

That night Bob composed the most enthusiastic invitation to Miss Elizabeth Krotzer begging her to be his guest at the Eleventh Annual Athletic Hop of the John M. Greene School for Boys. The next step was to publish the fact far and wide that he had sent out his bid. He slept well that night.

When the answer came to his letter he hardly felt as if it was necessary to even read it and was about to consign it to the fire, but — curiosity killed the cat and he opened it and read it.

Some minutes later when his Freshman friend came into Bob's room he found him in a deplorable state of mental agitation. No explanation could be wrung from him, but at intervals the words escaped him, "She will be delighted to come."

Turning to the poor, scared Freshman abruptly he burst out in anger. "Not a word of this to anyone or I'll wring your neck — especially to Spike. It's the tragedy of my life and not open for discussion by the general public. Heaven only knows what I've done to deserve such punishment."

The Hop was only a month off and during that time no mention of the affair was made between the two room-mates. Bob spent many a moment trying to figure out whether he had made a slip in his plans or the girl had accepted two invitations.

The day drew near and Bob grew more despondent at its approach, while Spike sang louder, ate more heartily and was generally in fine shape. The town dressed itself all up. The florists made wonderful displays. There was a general scramble for dress suits. All this only irritated Bob more and more. He thought of the three days of agony ahead of him and of the seventy-five dollars with which he must soon part.

The prom. was on Friday night, but on Thursday evening came the Glee Club Concert. Gay and festive girls descended from every train all day Thursday. Miss Elizabeth Krotzer was gayer than any of them. Her father was a prosperous brewer and she lacked nothing in the way of this world's goods. She expected people to give and spend freely when she permitted them the pleasure of her company.

Bob and Spike went to the station together, but in two entirely different frames of mind. The former had forgotten his troubles for the time being and was consumed with curiosity as to what would happen when both stepped forth to meet the same girl.

But they didn't! In fact, Bob received such a shock that he forgot to look out for Betty Krotzer at all. Not only did Spike greet a girl whom Bob had never seen before, but he actually kissed her. The next minute he heard Spike booming in his ear, "Allow me to introduce my sister, Margaret."

How Bob lived through the events of those next few days he never knew. The concert wasn't so bad — he enjoyed the music and conversation was necessarily limited. But the prom. — never had he labored so hard and furiously in all his life before.

When Spike came into the room that night he found something which was nearer akin to a rag doll than a pompous room-mate. Spike was in the highest of spiritis. No wonder, hadn't he and his sister been awarded the cup given to the best dancers on the floor?

"Well, Bob, old scout, how goes the battle?" he said, giving his room-mate a resounding slap on the shoulder.

"I won't be able to walk without crutches for a week. I'll never be such a fool again if you will only explain the conspiracy which existed against me. You told me you had invited Betty and that she had accepted your—"

"I beg your pardon, Bob, but if you will kindly remember I mentioned no names. You see, one of the fellows overheard you tell that Freshman your plan of salvation and he imparted the knowledge to me. Of course I couldn't disappoint you, so you can put an extra star in my crown for giving you such a splendid time."

"Well, I'll give you the same chance next year, because my bid is out in plenty of time and your sister has accepted my invitation for the Twelfth Annual Athletic Hop of the John M. Greene School for Boys."

"The White Road"----Second Prize Story

by NELLIE BALLOU, '16

GASPARD, with a face of night, jostled the people in the marketplace and filled them with a nameless fear, at which the women shuddered and the men drew back and turned again to look and wonder. Little did he heed the throng. He must have left his eyes at home, so often did he stumble against those in his path. Perhaps he was thinking of his comrade who was sleeping — oh, so quietly — in Gaspard's deserted lodgings.

"Dear Heaven!" shrieked an old crone. "I think a dead man's picture is frozen in his eye." A young countryman guffawed to see her foolish fear, but he, too, breathed relief when Gaspard had left the marketplace.

It was at the corner where a loud-voiced fakir cries his wares, that Gaspard stopped. He passed a hand across his pallid brow, and after fumbling in his bosom, drew out a curious small bottle and drank some of its contents. Then he looked about him. Heavy wagons rumbled by; crazy vehicles from the country, with ungainly drivers.

"Move on, fellow!" said a man in uniform as he passed. Gaspard did not hear him.

A tug at one of his relaxed hands finally roused him. A fair little girl was beside him, looking up into his face and smiling.

"Take me across, please?" The man did not comprehend.

"Nanette is afraid of the wagons." Gaspard looked at her in dull wonder.

"Me? You want me to carry you? Are there not others?"

"You take me across, please!"

Gaspard hesitated; his breast rose and fell convulsively, and his eyes darkened. Then he smiled grimly. "Yes, I will help you — wait!" He rubbed his hands on his dingy coat, then lifted the child to his shoulder and bore her across the busy thoroughfare.

"I am so scared to go alone," the little creature confided. "If you like, you may carry me all the way home."

"Where is that, baby?"

"I'm not baby; I'm Nanette, and I live at the prison. Papa wears a coat with bright buttons."

"I can't go there, Nanette; but I shall take you as far as the White Road."

"Then will you walk on the White Road?"

"Yes."

"Far?"

"To the very end."

"Oh, I knew it! As soon as I saw you, I thought you were going there. I have always wanted to be there, but it would be so lonely by myself."

"Yes," said Gaspard, "very lonely."

When they had come to the highway known to the city as the White Road the man put down his little burden, but stood, loath to part with the child.

"It is not far to your home, Nanette?"

"No, there it is with the dark windows, over across the court."

"It is not a pleasant place, is it?"

"Oh, yes, for I can see the Road."

Both gazed up the long, white way, which, turning sharply from the busy street, leads to a desolate coast where the waves bring home the ships of the dead. Its lonely miles stretched on and on, as far as eye could see. The sun shone hot upon it, and little breezes lifted tongues of dust. A large beetle burrowed across the sand at Gaspard's feet.

"Why do you like it?" the man asked curiously.

"Because it goes there." Nanette pointed and smiled at the hazy horizon. "God lives there — don't tell anyone — and often I have seen through His doorway, and it was all bright inside." Her voice sank to a whisper; Gaspard shrank back as if he feared her.

"God's doorway!" he repeated, and shivered as if with cold.

"Don't be afraid," she said, taking his hand in both her little ones. "I don't see why they are always frightened."

"They? Who?"

"You — and the men who come to live in Papa's cages. They are very good to me. I call them my birds."

Gaspard started and laughed nervously. "You must go home and feed your birds, and I — I must go on to —" the child smiled happily — "the nearest port."

"Oh!" Her face fell. "You are not going to the end of the Road?"

"Perhaps, Nanette." He tried to laugh, but it ended in a choking sound. "You can get home safely? You are not afraid?"

"I am just a little afraid of the wagons; but I'll be careful, for there are so many coming yonder from the market. Goodby! I shall look back every minute and see you walking on our beautiful road." She stood at the edge of the stone-paved street, waiting until she might cross with safety. For a moment Gaspard hesitated, perceiving her evident dread. Then came the distant sound of the stone-breakers in the prison yard, and turning toward the west he went his way.

"I hope Nanette will not look back while she crosses the street," he said to himself.

As the noises of the city grew fainter, Gaspard thought they were very like a troublous dream. He heard the rumbling of heavy carts, then the shouting of men and the shrill cry of a child, and again the shouting of men. There was a long lull before any sound began anew. He listened for a while with wonder and a kind of fear, until a thought of his peril drove him on.

No sign of life was on the White Road. The city had drawn it all to its heart, where it throbbed in weary monotony. Gaspard remembered one there who now was only a clay figure among living men. That morning he had been a jovial companion. But what is done is done. Gaspard ground his teeth. Had they found it yet? And were the police already seeking to fill another of little Nanette's cages?

A feeling that someone was near caused him to turn quickly. He saw nothing. Uneasiness seized him.

"Who? What?" he called. A faint murmur reached his ear. His eyes rolled wildly. It might have been some droning insect, but there was none such in sight. He laughed, a forced, hysterical laugh.

"My forgetfulness is wearing off," he muttered, with shaky reassurance. "I must take more." He found the curious bottle, and measured one, two, three drops of the contents.

"It is late, the door may be shut!" The thin voice caused him to stagger as if struck by an invisible hand.

"Nanette!" he called, looking about with new hopefulness.

"Yes," answered the childish voice. But that was all. Gaspard groped for the bottle which he had dropped.

"I can stand more of this than I used to," he said, and put it to his lips.

Surely he was very, very weary with the heat of the long road, for his steps grew slower, and his great body drooped, as one that can go no farther.

"I am tired," said Gaspard; "I must rest a while." So he sat under a tree beside the way, and soon the bottle dropped from his hand and his head fell forward so that one could not see his face except by stooping low, and Gaspard slept.

"Come! God's doorway will soon be shut!"

Gaspard was not tired now. He rose at the sound of Nanette's voice and saw her beckoning to him as she stood far down the road. In a moment he was beside her.

"Where were you, Nanette? Did you hide from your poor Gaspard to frighten him with only a voice?"

"I was there all the time. Didn't you see me? I followed you all the way."

"Then you must be weary. Will you ride on my shoulder?"

"I am not tired, but I wish you would lead me by the hand, for we must hurry. The big tree behind us is only half way."

Gaspard looked around. "What is that huddled on the ground? Let us go back and see: I think it is a man."

"No! No! It is a dreadful thing, all darkened, with staring eyes. It is not a man. I am afraid of it. Let us go on."

"Then show me the way, Nanette. I seem not to know it, and none ever told it to me."

The great White Road glows red under the sunset. The way has been weary, but the end is not far off. Pavilions of glory rise in the sky, crimson and purple, and a brighter gold than that of earth gilds the towers of the west. There is a sound as of unseen stars singing. The doorway of God's house is open, and there is all brightness within. As the jealous mists from sea and sky close in to veil the splendor, Gaspard and Nanette stand at the door of their Father, hand in hand.

The Inauguration

TWO days, May 19 and 20, of the year 1914, will be remembered long by every Denisonian who was with his Alma Mater when she formally took Clark Wells Chamberlain as her President. It was a time of gladness; tasks were put aside, that young and old might offer becoming honor to the college and her distinguished son. Denison became a shrine, to which journeyed from the East and the West men whose very names bear magic.

Like the rejoicings of old, the celebration began with music and dancing. A Carnival was held on Shepardson Campus, and quaint figures, moving gaily, expressed the spirit of the day. That night the Coburn Players gave "As You Like It" on the South Plaza.

On the morning of May 21, a deeper gravity entered the ceremonies. A great procession — learned men in the robes which long, tireless labors have won, younger ones whose lives are still before them, and a vast throng of those whose very hopes are still sleeping — all passed alike to the church for the Chapel service. Then again they went on their way, up the hill in the bright sunshine. And there the new President was proclaimed, and the charter given into his keeping. It was a moment of history in the life of the college.

At the close of the Inauguration Ceremonies, the distinguished visitors, alumni, and faculty were guests of the trustees at a luncheon in Swasey Gymnasium. Then followed the inspection of the college buildings and a reception by President and Mrs. Chamberlain.

The Oratorio, "St. Paul," ended the day, and the Inauguration was over. But the promise of it still lives, and we may find that, after all, it was only the beginning, the dawning of Denison's Golden Era.

SOME years ago there was felt the need, among those who were entering into definite religious work, of an organization that would give to such men an outlook which could be gained only by concerted effort. The purpose is to hold regular meetings at which the different phases of the minister's work are presented.

This year we have had addresses from such men as Rev. Brelsford, Prof. Spencer, and Dr. Stull of Newark. Several men have been supplying churches, and some have been on the Gospel Teams and have encouraging reports to bring. An effort has been made this year to have the meetings of a more personal character.

Senior Class History

WHO comes here? To be sure, it is the only class in D. A.—the class of '15. Now that the race is nearing an end and the coveted prize is within our grasp, we look back over our past record with a keen sense of pride mindful of the privileges and advantages we have enjoyed here.

Our real history began when we first entered Doane's walls, but our activity was not shown until our Junior year, when the out-going Senior class of '14 enjoyed a "stunt" given by us. From that time on we have made our influence felt in every phase of Doane life.

The year started out with the election of the class officers, the appointment of necessary committees, the adoption of class colors and the selection of suitable pins. An informal class stunt helped weld us closer together.

This class has been able to bring back many a trophy from the football field and the basketball floor.

But our glory is not confined to athletics alone. The mysteries of science have cleared up before us, "pius Aeneas" has been our guest, and Xenophon has found us in his midst. The hardest geometrical problems have given up the ghost at our presence.

All in all we feel that we are fully equipped to enter the college Freshman class next fall and make our influence as far reaching there as in our beloved Doane.

Doane Football

AS we look back over the football season we have just completed and compare our records with those of preceding years, we feel truly satisfied with the results of our labors.

Indeed our records are not unblemished; they are not perfect. But when we compare them with those of last year we find that the progress we have made is indeed enviable. We have profited by our failures and have always tried to live up to the Doane spirit of true sportsmanship. Should we ignore our good record the acquirement of true sportsmanship would in itself be an indication of success. And so it is not with a sigh of regret but a smile of satisfaction that we etch our record in Doane Academy's football history.

At the outset we were very seriously embarrassed by having but very little veteran football material. But unlike last year we were so fortunate as to secure the services of a paid coach. Naturally every person wished to have our loyal Alumnus, "Pete" Prouty, who so kindly contributed his services to our efforts last year, fill this position, which decision later spelled our success. However, "Pete" did not find things in a very favorable condition, but the prospects were brightened by the response of many loyal students to his first call. Almost enough to make two teams responded, and each was determined that this year should be a successful one for the red and black. Our hopes began to rise as we saw Prouty mould his inexperienced material into presentable form. While it was yet in the plastic stage he marched them down to Columbus, where we were routed by the East High veterans. This game we prefer to let lie buried in the past, as the score was fifty to nothing in the wrong direction. We were not discouraged, so profiting by our defeat and a week's hard practice we vindicated our reputation by overwhelming "Dutch" Pfeiffer's raiders from Zanesville. This game shows our progress, for here the results were better than a reversal, giving us a 64-0 victory. The following week we walloped our old rival Newark by a 15-6 score. The next week Columbus Academy attempted to block our progress but suffered a reverse, the score being 41-2 in our favor. We next engaged Utica, and although our team was badly crippled beat them by a 10-3 score. Zanesville was again easily defeated 48-0. Mt. Vernon was our next victim, being subdued 19-6. Our team then met and easily conquered Delaware by a score of 20-0. In our last game as in the first we suffered a reverse. Although we were leading up to the last minute, somehow they were able to score on us and we lost 7-3.

It seems rather unfortunate to lose both the first and last games of the season. But by observing our scores one is able to judge our progress. We began in the ranks of the weakest and finished in the ranks of the strongest teams in the state. Although our whole team showed remarkable ability it is only natural that there should be some outstanding players. We feel that especial honor is due McMahon, McCollum, Gregg and Kull, while Griffeth, Phillips, Wyse and Hopkins deserve a word of recognition.

Jokes

Prof. Odebrecht (in French I)—“We will not translate the next sentence, ‘Les pommes sont rouge.’ You all know what ‘rouge’ is, I think.”

Mr. Patrick—“Why don’t you have your lesson, Mr. Dawson?”

Dawson—“Why, I didn’t have my book.”

Mr. Patrick—“That’s no excuse—borrow one.” To Mr. Suvoong—“Have you your lesson?”

Suvoong—“Yes, sir; I lost my book but I borrowed one.”

Mr. Patrick—“That’s the spirit! Borrow one!”

Dawson (in a small voice)—“He borrowed mine!”

Langdon and Louise were sitting on the lounge when Billy, the dog, came by. Louise is very fond of him and so, when he came along, she leaned over and kissed him (meaning Billy). Trot and Hubert were coming along when this happened and Trot turned to Hubert and said, “Did you see that?”

Hubert—“What?”

Trot—“Why, she kissed him.”

Hubert—“Who? Which?”

Dr. Hundley (in History I)—“Mr. Vawter, what great thing did Alexander do?”

Vawter—“Spread Greece all over the world.”

Enter Mears, coming upstairs.

“Brutes, brutes, brutes.”

Exit bunch into B6, door closed.

Mears, without.

“Feathers, are you among these?”

No answer.

“Feathers, I thought you was a gentleman. (Pause.) I did not think you would do this. (Pause.) I put all my trust in you and now you have betrayed that trust. (Pause.) I cared not for the snipe but I went with you only out of friendship and now you have done this. (Long pause.) If you dare to breathe a word of this to any one you shall rue this day.”

Exit Mears, going downstairs and saying:

“Brutes, brutes, brutes, brutes.”

Mr. Emswiler—“The dimensions of a box are 6 by 5 inches, 2 by 4 inches, and 7 by 9 inches. Hershey, how much would this vessel hold when empty?”

Mr. Emswiler (to Parker Tilbe)—“Mr. Tilbe, do you understand that problem?”

Parker—“Yes, but I don’t believe it.”

Mr. Emswiler—“You are like the young man at the circus who looked up at the giraffe and then turned around and said, ‘I know that there ain’t no such animal.’”

Jack Hundley—“That’s just what I thought.”

Miss Orcutt (in Botany)—“This plant belongs to the begonia family.”

Josephine Darrow—“Oh, and you are keeping it for them while they are away. How very kind of you!”

OUR CHEER LEADER

“Shorty”

FOR three years “Shorty” has been the efficient Cheerleader of Denison’s forces on the gridiron, the basketball floor and the diamond. The position of Cheerleader at Denison means a great deal more than the necessity of making violent contortions and strenuous use of one’s own lungs in an attempt to get a good cheer out of the student body. In addition to leading the yells in a most noteworthy fashion, “Peanut” has been a star in the outside activities in the line of better attendance and spirit at all games. Numerous tags, that most efficient means of raising money and spirit, are due to him. It is to him that we must give the greatest credit both for the immense attendance at the Wesleyan football game last fall and for the building of the bleachers to accommodate that crowd. John Bud Long has truly earned his Cheerleader’s “D,” and we can only hope as he leaves us that his successor may be his equal.

MARCH

- Sun. 1. The Class of 1916 takes the Adytum from the Class of 1915 and starts on a fast lap.
- Mon. 2. Bud Carrier loses everything but his head, etc. He then advertises.
- Tue. 3. Phi Beta Kappa. "Nuf sed."
- Wed. 4. All the Seniors who haven't ten cents appear in suits at the Senior-Junior basketball game.
- Thur. 5. The Freshmen are victorious in the indoor track meet.
- Fri. 6. The "Big Red" slips one over on Cincinnati to the tune of 79 to 24.
- Sat. 7. Repeat. Miami the victim this time, 54 to 12.
- Sun. 8. The far-famed Kansas City quartet, composed of four young ladies from Shepardson College, sings at the Y. M. C. A. meeting.

MARCH 3.

- Mon. 9. Zeus inquires as to the price of farm lands in Illinois. Looks bad. Sophomore boys draw for partners to take to the big Freshman-Sophomore game.

- Tue. 10. Slackford poses as a Senior in Dutch Pfeiffer's mortar-board.

- Wed. 11. Rough-house at the Sem over pennants and toques. The glorious Class of 1916 again demonstrates its superiority over all others by taking the game 14 to 11 in spite of Archie Mac-Vicor. Some feed afterwards, too.

- Thur. 12. Absences—Dick. "No, more, an you love me."

- Fri. 13. Everybody goes to sleep trying to sing a so-called hymn in chapel. John Bjelke pins his faith on the Bible in a very realistic way.

- Sat. 14. A very severe landslide occurs. Denison 84, Wooster 7. Bud Carrier and the Leader's Class perform.

- Sun. 15. Everybody walks. Oh why the Sem rules.

- Mon. 16. Hoy waxeth defiant in English History. Alpha Delta Tau follows lead of Phi Beta Kappa.

Tue. 17. "Erin go Brah." Swisher makes his rep. as a soloist secure at the Y. M. C. A. stunt. Sem waiters spread themselves.

Wed. 18. Organ Recital by Mr. Wolle.

Thur. 19. Dr. Hunt talks to us at Y. M. C. A. policy banquet. Everybody glad to see him.

Fri. 20. Count Villers receives a weighty document addressed to the President of the Student Volunteer Band.

Sat. 21. Burton Hall stunt. Dick Clary and the Dean distinguish themselves. Another old tradition preserved. Track, Denison 63½, Ohio 37½.

Sun. 22. Just because he goes to Y. M. C. A. one Sunday morning, Don Ladd is taken for a preacher.

Mon. 23. Under this date we see that the Political Science Association met. Well, well!

Tue. 24. Calliope holds an Extra, incidentally busting a bust of one Ashmore.

Wed. 25. "The first number of the Historical Recitals will be held this evening." Where have we heard that before? Dayton Club stunt.

Thur. 26. Franklin Play, "The Private Secretary." "Say, do you know?"

Fri. 27. Denison splits even on debate honors, defeating Miami and getting beaten by Ohio.

Sat. 28. Shepardson party. No males allowed.

Sun. 29. Thunder—we're not swearing, especially on Sunday, but that's the weather today.

Mon. 30. Y. W. C. A. banquet. The Doane lits. put on colors.

Tue. 31. The Glee Club gives its annual blow-out. Any one to look at our friend "Mandy" Cox in the sketch would think he was naturally a grind, but—

Wed. 1. Cicero wins the contest for a change. Juniors hold their poverty banquet and try to hide their deficiencies under masks.

Thur. 2. Everybody says "Goodby, Denison," for a week.

Thur. 9. Back again, "Off again, on again."

Fri. 10. At last! The belated Easter bonnets! Those nice dainty Junior hats appear.

Sat. 11. No, it's not an escaped convict; only Dave Reese.

Sun. 12. The Knights of Pythias honor us with a visit.

Mon. 13. Long and Fox condemned to the Denisonian. A real spring day.

Tue. 14. Bargain sale in Kull's thesis topics at the Library.

Wed. 15. "Willy" stepping off the platform with a book in his hand. "Now, I have here Miss Stamenova—"

Thur. 16. Sport Owen shows a liking for rolling peanuts with a crowbar and fanning the Barber Pole.

Fri. 17. Debate on evolution in Franklin lit. Yates gets excited.

Sat. 18. First baseball game. Denison 3, Ohio 3. Marsh wins the game.

Sun. 19. Calendar Committee all go to church and so fail to get any news.

- Sun. 21. Some new imported birds seen on the Campus. Kappa Sig doggone!

- Mon. 22. Denison goes excessively patriotic. Hurrah for George. Some peerade! Bob Morris looks like a regular. Mark Swisher makes good use of the proposal tree.

- Tue. 23. Survival of the fittest. Ez Hansen and Phebe Johnson wear cap and gown.
- Wed. 24. Kull comes back, but where was the hirsute adornment we heard about?
- Thur. 25. Dandy Darcy try-out for end-men. A large audience hears Mr. Vinton. He must have weighed at least 240 pounds.
- Fri. 26. Orcutt and his camera made famous by the Shepardson Glee Club.
- Sat. 27. We are glad to be able to record a third CHAMPIONSHIP for Denison in basketball. By beating Wesleyan at Delaware 35-26 we cinched the pennant.

Sunday the Last.

Our course is run,
The journey's done;
From our poor puns
Pray get some fun.

Special telegram to THE ADYTUM: Mar. 1—Juniors win the interclass indoor track meet by defeating the Sophomores in the relay.

"Women should be allowed to vote," raved the enthusiastic student. "They have to obey laws that they don't have any say about making."

"That's nothing," answered Critz, "I didn't have anything to say about the making of the Ten Commandments, but I have to obey them."

Biggs (translating an English letter into Spanish)—"14 de Agosto de 1910. New York—"

"Nuevo York, Mr. Biggs," interrupted "Kibby." "Let's not have any of these mermaid translations—half English and half Spanish."

Prof. Kull in History 7: "Mr. Bjelke, you may tell us what the Executive of the Terror was."

John: "The guillotine."

"Out of respect for the great French nation, which has done so much for us and which is at the present time in such grave danger, please rise when you recite."

The Columbus Dispatch in reporting the Miami football game said: "Nelson Rupp ran seventy-eight years for a touchdown." We knew you were an old hand at the game, Knocky, but we hardly thought it was that bad.
